

SHARE YOUR STORY WITH CLEVELAND

The artists Paloma Dallas, from Ohio, and Juan-Sí González, from Cuba, are currently working on a new interactive collaborative installation project at Cleveland's City Hall. The project "Migración of Language," explores themes of immigration, displacement, and language and is an extension of the artists' current exhibit at SPACES art gallery at 2220 Superior Viaduct in Cleveland.

How you can participate: we are trying to show the personal reasons and circumstances that have led people to immigrate to Cleveland or simply move from one place to another. If you would take a second to respond to the following questions, we'd really appreciate your collaboration. Responses can be emailed to juansilence@aol.com, or left in designated places, which currently include SPACES and City Hall.

1. Where are you from and where do you live now?

2. How many different places have you lived?

3. Three events or reasons for moving from one place to another.

4. What do you like or dislike about your life in Cleveland?

5. What about Cleveland would you like to change?

You are invited to view the installation during September at City Hall. Entrance is free, but requires a photo ID.
